FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE

Pat Sajak Assassins
Approved by NASA
Released September, 2010

September 12, 2010--For a third release into the atmosphere, perpetually mutating orga-digi math rockers, Pat Sajak Assassins, multiply by new aural flavors their mélange of noise, melody and ambient space since their last work, "Lunch?!?"

PSA's signature "jolt 'em and leave 'em" style ever-undulates in calculated waves across the length of this amalgamated journey. Added touches, such as Amber DiStasio's velvet-clad hammering vocals, soften the artistic blow to the senses without sacrificing originality. "Approved by NASA" fuels up with pop music before rocketing off into its very own geek rock dimension.

Nearly two years in the making, "Approved by NASA" offers a pearlized version of PSA's prismatic, hand-tooled soundscapes whose complexity in form can be detected with ease by the naked ear. Enjoy this album even on your cruddy earthling computer speakers for an out-of-this-world experience.

In addition to continuing auditory tran-splendence, Pat Sajak Assassins has collaborated with Sarah Becan (Check out her work: <http://www.sauceome.com/>), winner of a 2009 Xeric Grant (<http://www.jakze.com/comix/comix.html>), for the new album cover.

Delighting the senses and becoming a fast favorite of local St. Louis fans, the band won The Riverfront Times "Best Experimental/Noise Band" award in 2005. After almost 10 years of performances across the United States, opening for bands like deft uber nerds, Battles and multi-layered soundtrack makers, El Ten Eleven, Pat Sajak Assassins has accumulated a loyal following in multiple regions.

The Pat Sajak Assassins remain highly visible and popular in the St. Louis rock scene. Recently, they have performed several times live on St. Louis radio station, 88.1 FM KDHX 's Thursday night radio show, "The Space Parlour" with Nick Aquisto.
